Summer School The Eastern Partnership: Current situation and possible prospects

August 18 - 23 2019
near Minsk/Belarus

For the second time, the Institute of History of the National Academy of Sciences of Belarus and the Belarus Office of Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung host a summer school on the Eastern Partnership.

The format invites young professionals working on EaP policy fields to Belarus to build a network, deepen their knowledge about the EaP and to prepare proposals for its improvement.

The Eastern Partnership Summer School aims to:

- establish contacts and build networks among young professionals from the EU and EaP countries, committed to improvement of the geopolitical and geo-economic situation in the EU's Eastern Neighborhood;
- serve as a communication platform for the exchange of young leaders with different views on the future of the EaP and thus help to formulate common positions;
- enhance understanding of main challenges in the EaP region;
- provide a platform for exchange of best practices;
- develop concrete recommendations and proposals for the EaP improvement.

During an intensive 5-day-school, the participants will go through a carefully balanced programme of lectures, discussions with top experts and practitioners from the EU and EaP countries, as well as practical workshop parts and excursions.

The goal is to identify areas of common interest and to work out a joint action plan. With the support of senior researchers, the participants will have the opportunity to develop their analytical project devoted to problem-solving within different dimensions of the Eastern Partnership.

Eligibility:

The call is open for young researchers and experts:

- from the EU and EaP countries (Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Ukraine, Moldova);
- working in the field of international relations, law, NGO, social sciences;
- aged between 25 and 35 years;
- having a good command of English;
- being prepared to contribute intensely, including preparation of input presentations ahead.
